AFTER ADMIRING THEIR dream home from afar, this couple had the good fortune of being in the market to move when the home finally came up for sale. Its perfect location and beautiful exterior sold the couple on the property. With an interior design background, the wife was not worried about the home's interior because she knew she could personalize it just for them.

As they embarked on the transformation, one area needing particular attention was the kitchen. Deciding to gut the space for a full remodel, the homeowners hired Cabinets Extraordinaire, whose designers worked to incorporate the lady of the home's professional input with their own expertise in kitchen design.

The kitchen was originally built for one cook, but the couple enjoys cooking together. They also like to keep their workspace well organized. With the remodel, Cabinets Extraordinaire was able to create room for each of them to work and move freely as well as a place for all their cook's tools.

The designers customized the depth of the cabinets, relocated the decorative hood to serve as a focal point, and moved the cooktop from the island to the perimeter. The island now has an extensive prep surface and is a stunning showstopper in cherry wood with a dark Woodridge stain. The walk-in pantry was also removed and reworked into an open storage area and butler's pantry just off the dining room—a beautiful and functional feature.

In addition to making room for two chefs, the owners also wanted the space to accommodate their beloved pets. The solution was two recycling centers—one for that purpose and the other to serve as an airtight and safe pet food container. With that, the kitchen was remade with room for all!
